2st CYCLE of RESIDENTIAL WORKSHOPS

2nd Residential Workshop in Milan

The second Residential Workshop of the Milan landscape pilot took place from March 31st to April 4th at Spazio Craft, Politecnico di Milano, with the participation of the PALIMPSEST Consortium, the artist duo gethan&myles, and several local associations actively engaged in the pilot's activities. This workshop focused primarily on defining the Landscape Services (LS) to be developed and envisioned within the project. The concept of Landscape Services, central to PALIMPSEST's theoretical and practical framework, is a powerful tool for modelling pilot activities.

2nd Residential Workshop in Łódź

The 2nd Residential Workshop activities in Łódź were focused on collaborative design, community engagement, and nature-based experimentation as a starting point for imagining and building more resilient urban futures.

Launch of the SONE Blog for Jerez de la Frontera

SONE “Songs Of Nearby Earth” is a project that approaches the territory and landscape of Jerez de la Frontera through co-creation in different artistic and design practices that integrate popular knowledge, landscape practices, local cultural expressions and emblematic elements such as ceramics, viticulture and singing. SONE blog is aiming to act as a communication tool, giving participants—and the wider public—a space to share their voices, discover the work of other local actors, and exchange findings and progress.
