PALIMPSEST re:SCAPE

A living digital space

for creative, sustainable interventions

to environmental challenges

Funded by the European Union

re:SCAPE is envisioned as a storytelling hub that reflects PALIMPSEST's approach to landscape regeneration. It serves as a dynamic digital hub, gathering the essential "ingredients" and methodologies to address site-specific environmental issues through creative interventions.

Rooted in the idea that landscapes are shaped by multiple actors across time and space, re:SCAPE highlights how artistic and cultural practices can enrich communities and transform our living environments. It showcases the collective and interdisciplinary process of grounding artistic interventions within the local identities of places and communities.

The repository is organized into four key sections:

Open Calls

A virtual space where public and private actors can share and disseminate ongoing open calls for creative and artistic proposals that address contemporary environmental challenges.

Artistic Interventions

A collection of creative initiatives at the intersection of science and art, inspiring transformative practices for sustainability.

Challenges

In-depth descriptions of site-specific environmental hurdles encountered in diverse landscapes.

Narratives

A set of stories, reflections, and case studies illustrating the transformative capacity of creativity in responding to ecological and social issues.

We invite you to register and explore re:SCAPE and become part of this evolving narrative of creativity and regeneration.

Let's re-write landscapes together!
